Night Assault Canucks, R.A.F. Pound at Turin In North Italy

LONDON, July 13.—British and Canadian heavy bombers carried out a "heavy and concentrated" attack on the northern Italian industrial centre of Turin during the night, striking an effective blow at a time when the enemy was busily engaged in the Sicilian campaign.

Seven dispatches reporting that some bombs fell on Switzerland, apparently by accident, and that two British bombers had crashed there, killing 12 crewmen said it was understood most of northern Italy's anti-aircraft guns and fighters had been sent to Sicily Saturday.

The air ministry announced today that 13 planes were lost in the Turin raid and other missions last night.

WEATHER BAD
The loss was small considering that the R.A.F. four-engined bombers had in battle unfavorable weather during much of the 200-mile flight across the Alps. However, the sky was clear when the strong force of planes reached Turin and it was indicated that the raid was successful.

One air force carried out minor nuisance raids on England early today.

A joint air force military communiqué reported that enemy planes made a sharp attack on an east coast town shortly after midnight, causing damage and some loss of life. Later a few Axis planes crossed the southeast coast and dropped bombs without damage. One of the raiders was destroyed.

Canadian Army Not Broken Up

OTTAWA, July 13.—(CP)—Defence Minister Ralston today told House of Commons that the current Mediterranean operations do not mean that the Canadian army is "broken up."

Col. Ralston said the role of the Canadian army was always "flexible," and it could be "taken apart" on the principle of a sectional book case.

It had been the policy that the Canadian army could be used in whole or in part, wherever and whenever it would best serve the common cause.

The Sicilian operations meant that that policy is being carried out," the minister said.

Party Reaches City Enemy Invasion of Northwest Discounted by Mayor La Guardia

"No one living within the area of the northwest has anything to fear from enemy invasion," such is a one-sentence summarization of the military situation in the Canada-Alaskan northwest, by one who has just returned from an intensive inspection trip to the area—stocky, ebullient Fiorello La Guardia, chairman of the American section of the Canadian-United States joint defence board and mayor of New York.

New York's famed "Little Flower" bulled into the Macdonald hotel Monday at 7:55 p.m. with Col. O. M. Biggar, head of the Canadian section of the joint board, and a party of 11 military and government officials, after a Pacific Northwest inspection trip which went right into the Aleutians.

Mayor La Guardia, whose hands talk faster than his mouth, revealed that the survey just completed by joint board reached to the Aleutians.

CO-OPERATION GRATIFYING
"It is very gratifying to see the line cooperation in every respect, and in every branch of the service, between the Canadian and United States forces in the northwest," said the mayor.

He is pleased with the situation from every view—and no one is disappointed.

Hepburn Accepts Liberal Nomination

ST. THOMAS, Ont., July 13.—(CP)—Former Premier Mitchell F. Hepburn last night accepted the nomination of the Elgin Liberal Association to run as an independent Liberal in Elgin in the provincial election Aug. 4. Mr. Hepburn had been Liberal member for Elgin since 1925, remaining as a private member of the legislature after he resigned the premiership last Oct. 21, and the provincial treasurer some weeks later.

In accepting the nomination, which was unanimous, Mr. Hepburn said: "I like to take a spade, a spade, and I'll go to the end of the line. I will be to represent the people of Elgin. Any party second to mine does not mean, however, that I have not a high personal regard for the Premier Harry Nixon."

Destroyed Transport May Have Carried High Enemy Officials

Series of Lightning Successes Are Marked Up by Allied Troops; Junction Made With Americans

LONDON, July 13.—(CP)—The Allies' rapid advance in Italy reported today that British 8th Army forces were advancing on the Catania Plain. There were no details given in the broadcast but it had been announced earlier from Allied headquarters in North Africa that beach landings had been made near Catania, on Sicily, coast some 35 miles short of Messina. The Catania Plain extends deep into the central part of eastern Sicily, with Catania at the northern end of a rough triangle. The eastern or coastal edge of the triangle runs about 13 miles north of Catania.

LONDON, July 13.—(CP)—The German overseas radio in a broadcast reported by Reuters' New Agency said tonight that Allied forward troops were advancing along the road from Augusta to Catania.

By REILMAN MORIN
ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, July 13.—(AP)—British and Canadian invasion forces swept up the east coast of Sicily at a breathtaking pace today, capturing the port of Augusta, 19 miles north of Syracuse, while other British troops plied ashore on the beaches near Catania, major city nearly half-way up the coastline to Messina.

British and Canadian troops fought their way into the two strategic communications centres of Ragusa and Palazzola in the southeastern corner of the embattled island, forming a junction with American troops at Ragusa as the latter pushed steadily northward and eastward from their original landing at Gela.

Again the veteran American troops repelled a fierce counter-attack by Axis forces, destroying a number of enemy tanks and taking prisoners, a headquarters bulletin announced.

Augusta Installations Undamaged
Without giving details as to exact sectors, it later was announced that the Allies now have made contact with regular field divisions of much sterner character than the coastal troops but these failed to offer much greater resistance.

Allied losses at Augusta were described officially as slight and port and harbor installations were undamaged.

Augusta, with a population normally running between 20,000 and 25,000 persons, is a fine fortified port which has been used as a naval harbor.

Junction Makes Unbroken Line
Simultaneously with the rapid-fire announcements of Allied successes, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower returned to North Africa from his visit yesterday to United States and Canadian forces on Sicily.

He declared that co-ordination of the Allied forces there "could not have been better had all the forces been of some single nation."

The junction of Canadian and American forces outside Ragusa consolidated an unbroken Allied line. American troops reached the verge of the city from the west slightly before Canadians drove in from the east, it was reported.

Farthest Point of Advance Inland

In Solomons Jap Cruiser, 3 Destroyers Sunk in Battle

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Pacific, July 13.—(AP)—A Japanese cruiser and three destroyers have been sunk in the night battle in the Kula Gulf of the Central Solomons. It was announced today. Two other Japanese destroyers probably were sunk in the engagement which occurred last night and early today.

The communiqué gave this account of the battle:

"During the night of July 12th, 13th our naval surface forces engaged an enemy task force of cruisers and destroyers. Early fragments of dispatches indicate that one enemy light cruiser and three destroyers were sunk."

No mention was made as to whether the United States ships suffered loss.

On the north New Georgia coast, the Japanese garrison trapped on the Dragon Peninsula between Eniwetok and Buad had been destroyed. Allied communiqué reported.

DOWN FIVE ZEROS
Over the Japanese air base of Munda, on New Georgia, five of 29 Zeros were shot down in an air battle.

The second naval engagement in the Solomons occurred at the night of July 5th in a narrow body of water between New Georgia and Kula in a large island as the Japanese tried to break out of their base for overland transportation to Munda, 12 miles south.

'THIS IS the STUFF TO GIVE the TROOPS'

Watch a battalion of tired soldiers at the fag end of a punishing route march. Watch their slack shoulders, their weary feet. Then watch as the band strikes up a swing. It's as if the march had just begun. If that is what one band will do, even when men are tired, think of what "The Army Show" will do . . . not for one battalion but for every Company, every Regiment in Canada, and possibly, little later, overseas. For "The Army Show" is the soldiers' own show . . . all the talent comes from the Active Service Personnel itself, including C.W.A.C.'s. Into camps, towns, villages and even plains . . . this soldiers' show will bring its cheery bombshell of comedy, music, song and dance . . . brightening many an evening. On Thursday and Friday evenings Edmonton Citizens will be given the opportunity to see "THE ARMY SHOW." The entrance money you pay will be devoted to the welfare of our troops.

Everyone is Urged to Buy a Ticket ($1.00, $1.50, $2.00, $2.50) for This Show . . . Which Will be Held at the Arena—July 15 and 16

In Good Company

The people at home will be gratified to know that the Canadian troops in Sicily are grouped with the famous 8th Army. They are in good company. There is none better. Directed by General Montgomery they fought alongside the men who harried Rommel's Afrika Korps across 1,200 miles of desert into the Tunisian trap. The Canadians have had the advantage of gaining battle experience under proven leadership and in the company of seasoned comrades. It is a tribute to their fitness that they were given the task of leading the assault divisions of the Libyan campaign; and to the course of training which fitted them for this duty.

However hard the fighting in Sicily—and beyond—may be, it is reassuring to know that our men will have the benefit of gunnery and armor which may have been schooled in battle against an enemy that was excellently equipped and well led. In such company they are sure to be placed. And it is a comforting thought that Montgomery has won his battles with losses which were relatively—and even surprisingly—light.

Better Do It Now

Mr. W. J. Taylor, coal controller for Alberta, has something to say that the consumer may not like to hear but he has better pay attention to. Restrictions on the sale of coal may have to be introduced very soon to meet a threatened shortage next winter. A coal shortage would be established under which the householder will get only 75 per cent as much coal as he got last winter. Therefore it is suggested that the consumer stop being choosy and buy whatever kind of coal he can get whenever he can get it.

From Ottawa the word came yesterday warning. The substance of it was that consumers are likely to be required to accept 25 per cent of "soft" coal when they order anthracite for winter use. This would not affect Albertans directly because little anthracite is used here. But indirectly it would shorten the Alberta supply, since the "soft" coal is being largely from Alberta mines.

The moral for Alberta coal-users—and for housewives all over the prairie—is plain. They had better stop their ordering early, take any particular brand the dealer can supply, and be thankful to get the bill filled ahead of the quota restriction.

The Times Have Changed

The time has come when Edmonton has to "sell" its location as the coming great air center of the continent. That is now recognized in both Canada and the United States as one of the certainties of the future. To this end it was quite an event when a plane dropped down on Edmonton's airport or when one took off for some point in the north or elsewhere on the map. Now that comes and goes numbers to one outside the airport staff knows anything about.

Of course the enormous volume of traffic is swelled by war conditions. But these conditions are creating opportunities for civilian aviation. The traffic which will be both permanent and expanding. If the war should end at once, the ordinary business traffic through the port would continue to be maintained. The fact that the busiest pre-war season, and the civilian traffic of today is only a hint of that to come when air transport takes the place it is definitely marked to hold in the after-war years.

Already Edmonton's airport is foreseen to be inadequate to meet the needs of people but by the Governments of the two countries. Edmontonians are in fact amazed at the additional facilities which are being created in and adjacent to the city. But these are being made by those who are in better position than people here can be to trace the trend of the future and measure the traffic which will carry it.

It is no longer a case of Edmonton trying to persuade outsiders that it has an air future. They know it better than we do—and are spending money on airport facilities bigger and bigger. They could foresee or can yet quite comprehend.

We're All In It

"Back the attack" is now a more gripping phrase than it was a few weeks ago when it was made the slogan in the Fourth Victory Loan campaign. The attack was then a future so far as our army was concerned, something bound to happen but to no one knew for sure. Now the "attack" is a present reality. The army is at grips with the enemy as our navy and our forces have been for more than three years. All three of our fighting forces are now on the offensive—and will stay on the offensive until victory is won, however long the winning may take.

What two months ago was a general appeal to civilians to back our fighting men is now a direct appeal, sharpened by the newspapers. It is now something even more than an urgent call to duty. It must be taken as a command. The attack carries the force of a moral obligation from which no person can excuse himself. Whoever might do more than has been doing to keep our troops equipped and the nation strong in substance and morale must answer to his conscience if he fails.

Not every person in Canada is or can be producing directly in producing munitions or food or other essentials. But more could be so employed than yet have been; and everyone who earns something more than he needs to support his dependents on a sufficient but plain scale of living can put the balance into the war funds. Men are needed in the lumber woods, on the farms, and in countless other occupations directly or indirectly contributing to the support of the fighting forces and the stability of the nation. And who is there who cannot cut out a few trifles to buy war savings certificates and stamps or to save money to buy war bonds when the Fifth Victory Loan comes along in October?

When our soldiers went into action in Sicily they put the civilians at home on the spot. We either back them to the full measure of our abilities—or we let them down.

An official statement issued at London states that during May 97 per cent of the ships in Allied convoys arrived unharmed at their destinations. Fifty enemy submarines are believed to have been destroyed in the last two months, bringing the total for the war up to 250. But it is added, this is only about one-quarter of the number built. Success of Allied sea and air effort in warding off attacks, rather than actual destruction of U-boats, apparently accounts for the improved showing.

Dr. Goebbels is said to have bought a castle in Spain. This would be a good time to tell Franco that if any of the Berlin gang or the Rome gang or the Paris gang he will have to hand them over for refuge when the fighting stops. There should be no place of safety anywhere on earth for the promoters of a global war.

Mr. F. S. Gradine, one of the coordinators of the Board of War Production, says the only food surplus in Canada is wheat; that poor crop this year means we shall have to get along with less food; and that the most part of the wheat surplus would be moved to animals are moved to market. The moral is obvious. We are still in the producing stage of the war. We must grow something to eat had better get busy.

Imposing Restrictions on the Teaching Profession

New Regulations Impede Education at Vital Time

By HAROLD L. WEIR

The new federal regulations with regard to the teaching profession seem to have created various uncertainties which will hamper education without improving the educational situation very much. The regulations seem to be in "free" teachers' hands, and it is not clear that there is a teacher shortage. country, to continue to demand more teachers because they are so scarce.

The Dominion Government wished to ensure a large supply of teachers, it should have started by ensuring a large supply of teachers, it should have started by ensuring a large supply of teachers.

Uncertainty
The application of the new regulations, which will hamper education without improving the educational situation very much.

Now can a young man or woman, who is taking normal training, for instance, be sure that he will ever manage to get a school?

Thus, the effect of the regulations will be to reduce the number of those who are training for the teaching profession, and it is not clear that there is a teacher shortage.

Surveys are difficult enough to secure reports for the profession which is at once most vital and the most vitally paid without hindrance to the teaching profession.

One would think, therefore, that the Dominion Government would think again and take competent action before enforcing these regulations which will hamper education without improving the educational situation very much.

law and the other learned professions. That, of course, is no more war-time development. There could be no more damning indictment of our educational system than that it should permit those who are the very essence of our educational system to be so treated.

It is particularly astonishing that such conditions should prevail in a country which is trying to be a democracy, because a democracy rests on a foundation of equal ability on education.

Democracy is based on the proposition that the masses are to govern themselves. And yet, the teacher, who is making the masses capable of governing themselves is education.

One would think, then, that in a democracy the teacher would be the one person, above all others, to be honored and assisted in every possible way. If we are honest in our estimation of the teacher, the teacher should be the person of prime importance in our community.

It is not the purpose of this article to reveal our appreciation of this point by giving the teacher a salary of $800 a year.

Leadership
With Dominion government taking more and more control of the education system, the financial support of teachers becomes more and more a problem of taxation, one that should be solved by the government.

International Exchange Union Plan Advanced

By FRANK FLANNERY

OTTAWA, July 12.—(CP)—Canadian financial experts have forwarded a plan for an "international exchange union" with a potential capital of $120,000,000 and a certain initial capital of $80,000,000 as an approach to solution of the problem of fluctuating values of money in the post-war world.

Their draft proposals were tabled to the House of Commons yesterday by Finance Minister Lloyd.

The main objective of the Canadian plan is to provide for stability in exchange rates with an orderly method for their determination.

2. To provide a convenient clearing mechanism to settle balances in international payments.

3. To provide to all countries access to foreign exchange resources.

4. To aid in the achievement of international equilibrium.

5. To contribute to the re-establishment and development of a multilateral trading system and to elimination of discriminatory trade and currency practices.

The proposals represent the contribution by the government's advisers in the finance department and the Bank of Canada to the more or less informal discussions which have been going on for months between experts of various countries seeking a means of stabilizing exchange rates.

The plan of the Canadian experts is the third to be placed before the economic and banking experts of the nations involved.

While it differs in detail, the plan has the same objective as those made public last April by the British and United States governments.

All four plans contemplate a sort of international central bank into which member nations would make deposits and from which they might obtain the currency of other member nations to settle trade balances. This would prevent depreciation of trade by rises or falls in the value of currencies.

Under the Canadian proposal, each member entering the union would subscribe its allotted quota of a capital of $80,000,000,000. The plan would be financed by the international trade national income holdings of gold or foreign exchange convertible into gold.

Against "Interests"

Prime Minister Declines To Guarantee Deportation Of Japs When War Ends

OTTAWA, July 12.—(CP)—Prime Minister Mackenzie King last night asked members of the House of Commons pressing him for a promise to deport all Japanese from Canada after the war, if they thought such an announcement would be in the interests of Canadian soldiers and civilians now in Japanese hands.

He preceded that question with a statement that in the absence of consultation with the United States, where a similar problem existed, and because the war was still far from over, he could make no definite commitment to those who wanted him to give a pledge that Japanese would be sent home when the war was over.

Gordon Graydon, Progressive Conservative house leader, said there would be many in Canada who would look upon this attitude as a form of appeasement.

"I can assure my honorable friend that the government has no policy to appease," Mr. King replied.

"I ask him if any action such as a proposed bill to deport the Japanese by the Canadians in Japanese hands. It is all very well to speak lightly of these matters having in mind politics in British Columbia and among the Japanese in Canada."

"Does my honorable friend say I have my mind on politics?" asked Mr. Graydon.

"Yes," Mr. King replied. "Any mention of appeasement today is for political ends. He Mr. Graydon knows as well as I do the significance of the word 'appeasement' to the public mind."

Mr. Graydon said his mind was not on politics and he meant nothing significant by his use of the word, and Mr. King said he should be more careful in his choice of words.

WONT AFFECT TREATMENT

A. N. Neill had. Comm-Alberta said it was useless to hope that Canadians in Japanese hands would be treated any better because of this stand by the Prime Minister.

The only way to impress the Japanese was to be firm and to warn them that anything in the way of reprisals would be ruthlessly avenged.

The discussion was carried during consideration, in committee of the whole, on external affairs estimates.

The Prime Minister's parliamentary assistant, Brooke Claxton, said that the government would not be speaking for the government in the House of Commons.

Mr. King said Mr. Claxton was not speaking for the government in the House of Commons.

Canada's Role In Invasion Well Covered

By R. T. RICHARDSON

OTTAWA, July 12.—The play that Canadians' part in the Sicily landings was covered in the world's press is far beyond the most direct news coverage of press offices and the wartime information board.

Just how well covered is something that newspapermen are discussing with admiration and in some American and British instances, with complaints that the breakers have gone so well that the Canadian correspondents. They have indeed gone so well that the belief exists that some extra ordinary enterprise in organizing the dispatch of news from the Sicily front, held, broadcast, or in Pashin in Sicily has been displayed. But this is still not explained in detail.

"IRRITATION" WIPE OUT

All the Canadian irritation that exists when a large portion of the U.S. press played up the Canadian role in the invasion of Sicily, was largely an American operation although as it turned out only 45 American participants, including the Canadian newspapermen, were involved.

After the time, Canadian newspapermen, including the Canadian newspapermen, were involved.

THE gist of the story related by Ali el-Andalosi was that, one day, shortly after Germany had crushed France, a man had appeared in the heart of the Dark Continent, in a stretch of territory south of Lake Tchad where there were no white soldiers, traders, colonists, missionaries or government officials; a huge, jungly fastness as unknown to Europeans as the mountains of the moon.

Not even the native conspirators, who obeyed his orders, knew exactly who he was. They only knew that he was the hickmost member, the Man of Mystery, who—el-Andalusi told Lincoln—had, during the last eighteen months, communicated with the leaders of all the many anti-European societies, Moslem as well as heathenish Negro juja, throughout Central and North Africa, and had persuaded them to listen to him and acknowledge him master and swear fealty.

How had he succeeded?

Lincoln never found out—although, in the end, he did discover the man identity.

"His word," el-Andalosi said now, "is law."
"I suppose," inquired the American, "he will order us to make

Answer: The Sahara Desert, in Africa

"And I bet," thought Lincoln, "I'm one of them."

He felt a little ashamed of himself. The other, years ago, had been his friend. And here, to-night, he was acting the spy, sucking the man dry of vital, precious information.

"Whom," he inquired, "would you have sent if Fosiha had not known where I was? For I suppose there are others left here of the brotherhood."

"A few. But all of them crumb-peddlers and camelers. Not to be entrusted with a grave mission. Trust, with superb simplicity, to me—and Allah!" He listened to him—and sent you."

He was silent.

"Can you imagine the outcry of horror, of fear, on the day we strike?" he went on triumphantly. "Can you imagine the confusion in the midst of war? And what can the foreigners do? Find the murderers? Hang them? What of it? Other martyrs will carry on the blessed, blessed work."

Lincoln bit his lips.

"Thank God that he had found out about it in time!"

That "tired feeling" is certainly a common complaint. However, continual tiredness is unnatural—that is, no reason for you to wake up tired in the morning, to feel tired in the middle of the afternoon, or to feel exhausted at the end of the day. Persistent tiredness often comes from habits of living which are not good and is corrected when these habits are changed to better

A certain amount of healthy physical fatigue is to be expected after you have been actively using the muscles, but the habit of being tired most of the time is abnormal and frequently precedes the appearance of some actual disease. If you feel tired and weak then by all means start now to use a treatment which will put you back on your feet before you develop more serious symptoms.

The tired patient wants to rest, and in fact, craves rest more than the average individual. However, those who try to get over that tired feeling by resting, generally end up by becoming more tired than ever.

Along with the tired sensation the patient may experience a feeling of mental depression, headache, or may note that the legs tremble may note that the legs tremble. When he tries to concentrate, on a task requiring close attention he is likely to say the head throbs. When he tries to do physical work, he feels "played out," or his muscles feel weak, or he may become light-headed.

Sometimes the patient makes the remark that he is so tired his entire body feels as though it were made of lead, or he may state that he is unable to carry out sustained activity without feeling so tired he wants to go to bed and stay there for a month.

The two main causes of injury to women are over-exercising and under-exercising. The way to replace tiredness with an abundance of strength is to eat less and exercise more. In starting to exercise, remember to begin gradually, keeping within the limits of what you can do. Be sure to include an exercise period at the end of each day, and a period of rest. It might help you to get the right mental picture of it by thinking of exercise and rest as the two sides of the same coin. When you have spent a certain length of time exercising, turn over the coin and spend an equal length of time resting.

Also, cut down on your consumption of the heavy foods. If, after eating a full meal, you feel sluggish and dull, then eat half as large a helping next time and use more of the mild and soft vegetables to make a difference.

At the same time that you begin your regimen of exercise and careful dieting, learn how to stop wasting energy through destructive thinking. Use the positive thinking to replace the negative immediately with a positive thought of a more cheerful nature. Thoughts of worry, fear, or anxiety, when indulged in too often, will keep you tired, and your opposites will weaken strength.

Keep up this attempt to eat correctly, exercise assembly, and think constructively for two months and you will be surprised how much better you will feel. These measures are enough to cure the average case of that "tired feeling."

All questions regarding health and diet will be answered. Large, stamped, self-addressed envelope must be enclosed. Write on one side of paper only. Letters must not exceed 150 words. Address: McCoy Health Service, The McCoy Building, 1151 West 6th Street, Los Angeles, Calif.

Government Bases Policies Uncompromising Adherence To Democratic Principles

The policies of the Alberta government are based on an uncompromising adherence to democratic and democratic principles, Premier Ernest Manning stated in an address Monday night. The government will oppose, expose and resist by every means within its power any and every form of totalitarianism, whether it be financial, political or economic.

"We shall resist all policies directed toward centralizing power in hands of either private interests or state institutions. In this fight we shall have the wholehearted support of all freedom-loving people," Mr. Manning declared.

Mr. Manning's address was entitled, "The Basis of Government Policy," and it was the second in a series of addresses on provincial subjects.

"The essential difference between democracy and totalitarianism is in the form of the relationship of the individual to the state and its institutions. Under a properly functioning democracy the state and all its institutions exist to serve the individual citizens who collectively are the supreme authority," Mr. Manning said, at the beginning of his address.

CONCENTRATED POWER

Under totalitarianism the state and its institutions are concentrated in their hands, and the individual citizen was a mere cog in a vast machine—between these two opposite and conflicting elements, a violent clash was inevitable.

The political voting system and the state voting system and the money system, were discussed in the address, as well as the socialist viewpoint of the state and its institutions over the operation of production, distribution and finance.

BREAK MONOPOLY

Referring to Alberta's entry into the fire and life insurance fields, and the sale of firm machinery, parts, the premier said "we went into these lines of business not to create a state monopoly, but to fight and break existing private monopolies and state monopolies."

"State enterprise for the purpose of creating beneficial competition and breaking existing monopolies is control must be distinguished from the socialist doctrine of the supreme state under which the state ultimately takes over all industry for the purpose of eliminating competition, and establishing one supreme state monopoly."

Mr. Manning continued, "I assure you that in our determination to break all forms of combines and monopolies control will not be used to use state enterprise to create beneficial competition and breaking monopolies, wherever it is in the public interest to do so."

COMPLETE TEXT

The complete address follows: Last week I pointed out that the people of Alberta are the supreme authority who decide what results they want from the management of their affairs and that governments should exist for the purpose of seeing to it that they get those results.

Now, if there was no conflict of opinion on this matter there would be no fundamental political issue. We would all be in agreement on the form of social organization under which we could best operate to get the results we want in common.

Under these conditions there is a violent conflict of views on this question. In fact, so violent is it that, as a result, the world has been plunged into war, revolution and social strife on a scale which is shaking the very foundations of civilization.

In contrast to democracy there is
